OUR PRODUCTS - TYPES OF BITUMEN

Bitumen is one of the most important petroleum derivatives that is widely used in various industries due to its characteristics such as high adhesion, resistance to moisture and temperature changes. Azarpetrotrade Company is ready to meet the needs of construction projects, road construction, and the production of waterproofing and moisture insulation materials both inside and outside the country by supplying various types of bitumen, including 60/70, 80/100, oxidized, emulsion and natural bitumen. High quality, proper packaging and timely delivery are among our commitments in the path of cooperation with customers.

OUR PRODUCTS - BASE OIL

Base oils possess specific properties that determine their performance under various lubrication conditions. These properties include thermal and chemical stability to withstand high heat and pressure, the ability to absorb and disperse additives for producing different types of oils, and oxidation resistance for long-term use. Additionally, their insolubility in water and ability to retain properties at low temperatures ensure effective performance in humid and cold conditions.

OUR PRODUCTS - BASE OIL

Base oil is the main raw material in the production of various industrial and automotive lubricants and oils, which plays a vital role in reducing friction, cooling and increasing the life of equipment. Azarpetrotrade Company supplies various types of base oils from groups I, II and III, including grades SN150, SN500, SN650 and other paraffinic and naphthenic products with export quality. Our products, with high thermal stability, suitable viscosity index and high purity, are an ideal choice for various industries. We are committed to providing products with international standards and reliable services to our customers.
